“Connected Living: A Smart and Healthy Home” Special Presentation (30 min).

Lainie Muller
Director, Health & Wellness, Strategic Sales (Alarm.com)

Abstract: We will discuss how security systems have evolved to do much more for the residential consumer market and commercial healthcare market. Today’s technology allows you to redefine the relationship between a person and the connected space they live in. These systems capture insightful data and perpetual awareness resulting in proactive and preventative care models. Today’s IoT platforms have the ability to create actionable information and unusual activity alerts improving patient outcomes and lower care costs. I’ll explain how IoT platforms allows for predictive analysis promoting a smart and healthy home.
